LOCATION	Dahlia Campus for Health & Well-Being
VOLUNTEER SUPERVISOR	Market Farm Manager

PURPOSE

Volunteer groups of 5-25 people are welcome to support the Dahlia Campus Market Farm in 2022. All groups will have the wonderful opportunity to learn about the Dahlia Campus for Health & Well-Being, sustainable urban agriculture and the Northeast Park Hill community. They will work alongside our farmers and food distribution specialists, providing valuable skills related to growing and distributing food in a community setting. They will assist with the day-to-day activities of the Dahlia Campus Market Farm.

Corporate volunteer groups are asked for a $75 suggested donation to support the volunteer program, and the Dahlia Campus Market Farm. All non-profit and community volunteer groups are not subject to requests for financial support.

For more information about the Market Farm visit our Dahlia Campus Farms & Gardens Webpage.

KEY RESPONSIBILITIES

- Responsibilities will vary depending on the Season and the Group.
- Assist in seeding, planting, cultivating, harvesting, and composting, as well as with general farm/greenhouse maintenance. The most likely time for harvesting will be August – October.

QUALIFICATIONS

- No previous farming experience is necessary.
- Can lift 40 lbs. and are willing to engage in strenuous, physically demanding tasks.
- We take health and safety very seriously and have strict Food Safety and Biosecurity policies. Since this volunteer position involves direct contact with food items, we require that volunteer adhere to the following rules:
 - We ask that volunteers do not smoke on the day they plan to volunteer (this relates to Tobacco Mosaic Virus which can put our crops at risk)
 - Always wear clean clothes, no dangling jewelry, and expect to tie your hair back.

As this volunteer opportunity is weather dependent please note that if it rains more than ½ inch within 36 hours of the scheduled opportunity date, it is more than likely cancelled. Volunteer groups will receive an email to verify any cancellation.

COVID-19 GUIDELINES

Our organization puts the health and safety of the people we serve, our staff and our volunteers above all else. Volunteers will be asked to review and agree to current organizational COVID-19 safety guidelines. As of March 2022 volunteers can expect a health screening, social distancing and mask requirements within all buildings.
