PURPOSE

Pollinator Garden and ADA Beds

The pollinator garden at the Dahlia Campus was a collaboration between the Denver Botanic Gardens and WellPower. This garden area displays regionally specific and native plants that provide food and shelter for pollinators such as bees and butterflies. Volunteers assisting in the garden will help maintain the space with regular watering, weeding, and general landscaping.

The ADA beds are located at the south end of campus. These raised beds are wheelchair and mobility accessible. These garden beds were made in response to the community elders' wishes to work on the farm without having to navigate the narrow aisles and low garden beds. These beds require no bending over and are easily accessed from the parking lot. Volunteers assisting with the ADA beds will help maintain the space with regular watering, weeding, and pruning of plants.

Volunteers will work alongside our farmers and food distribution specialists, providing valuable skills related to growing and distributing food in a community setting. Volunteers will assist with the day-to-day activities of the market farm. Volunteers may be eligible for free and/or discount pricing on produce from the Dahlia Campus Market Farm during their time supporting us.
